Immaculate Conception Parish Schenectady, New York

The parish of the Immaculate Conception was founded on May 1, 1904 in the section of Schenectady now known as Bellevue. Original members of the parish recorded their memory of the early days of the parish. The Bellevue section was largely undeveloped, with unpaved streets and no city water. Its first pastor, Rev. John Ready, held his first Mass as pastor in a loft above Hildebrandt's Livery Stable on Broadway, about a block west of the ultimate site of the church. His opening sermon compared the circumstances of the parish to the birth of the Infant Jesus in the stable in Bethlehem.

Membership grew to over 100 during its first year. The Rotterdam Junction area was attached to the parish in its early years, thus requiring the pastor to travel across the Mohawk by row boat in the summer and walking across the ice in the winter.

Early Masses were held in a small building built by Fr. Ready in 1904, still in use by the parish in 1954 as a garage.

Rev. James B. Hayden, STB, succeeded Rev. Ready on July 4, 1905. He spent much time supervising the construction of a church on the corner of Thompson Street and Broadway.

The interval between the two World Wars saw significant growth in the community and the parish. The parish noted that they were blessed that not one death occurred in the parish due to the influenza epidemic of 1918.

By 1928, the first section of the school, an auditorium (used as the church in the 1950's) and a rectory had been constructed. During this time, an assistant pastor, Fr. Leonard, OFM, joined the parish.

Fr. Hayden served as pastor until his death on August 21, 1945, whereupon the current assistant, Fr. Edward F. English, was appointed acting Pastor. In September, 1945, Rev. James J. McDonald was appointed to be the third pastor of the parish.

Fr. McDonald served as pastor until his death in 1962. These years saw the growth of very active societies, such as The Holy Name Society and the Altar Rosary Confraternity. These societies provided the genesis for many parish activities. Fr. McDonald oversaw construction of the new school building on Bradt Street, which opened in 1959.

After the death of Fr. McDonald, Fr. Thomas L. Carr, the assistant pastor, was appointed administrator. In 1963, the Rev. Monsignor James O'Neill was appointed as pastor, assisted by Rev. John J. Weyand.

Near the end of Fr. O'Neill's life, Fr. Francis Melfe became the administrator, and subsequently pastor, of the parish, assisted by Fr. Pudans and Fr. Robert Nugent, who conducted adult education programs. During his tenure, the Parish Council was established, as well as the Religious Education Program. In 1972, Fr. Melfe arranged a parish-wide census, when the parish was at peak growth.

During this time, Fr. Ralph DiPasquale founded Waitt House, a group home for disturbed young men and women. Rev. Albert DelVecchio served the parish until 1979, expanding several programs for the poor. Fr. DelVecchio acted as interim administrator until Rev. Joseph P. Cotugno was appointed the sixth pastor in 1979.

Fr. Cotugno's time at Immaculate Conception was highlighted by the 75th Anniversary celebration in 1979. He also spent much of his time ensuring that long-overdue maintenance of parish facilities was addressed. He also worked to improve the enrollments at the Parish School, through staff and curriculum changes. One associate, Fr. Jack Molyn, made a major impact on the spiritual and liturgical growth of the parish.

In April, 1989, Rev. Brian M. Cronin was appointed as pastor, whereupon he began working to pay off the large parish debt. He was instrumental in revitalizing the spiritual and service committees of the parish and started an adult bible study program. In late 1994, he was reassigned, with Rev. Louis "Ed" Deimeke coming as the new pastor.

Under Fr. Deimeke's tenure, focus was placed on liturgy, RCIA programs and ministry. He oversaw the inclusion of the parish in a clustering program with nearby parishes, especially the sharing of a Youth Minister with Our Lady of Assumption. He also supported ecumenical activities with the seven nearby denominations. He left the parish in January, 2000 to become Administrative Advocate for Priests.

Rev. O. Robert "Bob" DeMartinis joined the parish at the beginning of 2000. His emphasis on ministry and spiritual growth have led the parish to become stronger. In 2004, the parish was forced to close its school, after 44 years. The decision was made to convert the building, with volunteer labor, to a new Parish Center, including a chapel for daily Mass and other liturgical services.
